

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. George B. McClellan is as inaccurate about the Flemish language as he usually is about other things. The Flemish names for Bruxelles, Liege, and Louvain, which he gives, (namely, Brussel, Lowen, and Lutlich,) are pure German. In Flemish those cities are called Brussel, (without the diaeresis,) Leuven, and Luik.

ROBERT GRIMSHAW.

New York University, N. Y., Oct. 11, 1915.

The New York Times

Copyright © The New York Times
Originally published October 14, 1915